

Henselite Consulting Coach ...On line Delivery column

Welcome to this (October 2010) edition of the coaching column titled '...On Line Delivery' on Henselite's website;

Playing from the mat at the bottom of the page/ screen up to the head

THE HEAD SCENARIO- Fours team

The Yellow second player has the next delivery and player with black bowl will have the final delivery. The 3 Yellow bowls in the diagram are all about a mat width from the jack;

Situation 1 Decisions by Skip to make???

the head is at medium length up the green

if you were YELLOW Skip what would you do as top priority, and, can you identify all the options for that second team position player with that next delivery for the team

Situation 2 Decisions by Skip to make???

the head is less than a metre from the ditch

now, if you were YELLOW Skip what would you do as top priority, and, can you identify all the options for that second team position player with that next delivery for the team

If you made the same choice in both situations above as top priority, I think you lack elite level tactical skill at present.

Try all options yourself out at training as well as those used by these two skips. Find out what works, and, what not to try.

Lachlan Tighe,
October 2010